Dear John:

I greatly regret not having seen you to say goodbye before you left Washington. I tried to reach you a couple of times on the phone but you were out. I want you to know how really great a loss your departure means to us all.

We are following up very carefully on the matter that you took up with us when we lunched together and I hope before many weeks we will have something that is a little more concrete and satisfactory. In any event, your initiative in this matter has helped to push along a very important project.

Sincerely,

Allen W. Dulles
